NOT INCOMPETENT.

In the case of Mrs. Adrian M. King of East Sixth street, Glendale, charged by her husband with being mentally incompetent, Judge Rives of Los Angeles dismissed the case, stating that there was no testimony except that of her husband to prove the contention.

Miss Margo Duffett has left Portland for Seattle where she has accepted a position as second woman with the Baker Theater Stock company. Soon after her engagement she was given the leading role in Little Johnnie Jones. Newspaper notices from that city prove that she was quite the success of the season.

Mr. Wattles Replies to Mr. Croswell—
The Law as to Special Improvement Districts

In his article in THE NEWS of two weeks ago, Mr. Croswell arraigns Mr. Watson and myself on the grounds of misrepresentation and lack of knowledge. It appears that neglect in obtaining accurate information lies with him, not us.

He seems to be unduly exercised over the position of the proposed boundaries in the Casa Verdugo district, claiming "daily rumors" were afloat about proposed changes. As a matter of fact, there has been no change whatever in the position of the boundaries in that locality from the original lay-out. He, or anyone else, could readily have ascertained that fact had he inquired of the natural source of information, the Improvement Association committee chairman of that district, or anyone prominent in this annexation movement.

Mr. Croswell, and about fifty others who signed the protest petition, are outside the proposed boundaries, and it seems that, with very few exceptions, the greatest agitation against annexation comes from those who would not be included in the new city.

There is but one road improvement district, formed under the act of 1907, in this county, instead of "several," as our friend would have us believe, and that district has only reached the point of advertising for bids for work.

There has been practically no use made of this law since its passage, as evidenced by the fact that there have been no supreme court decisions on it.

In his article, Mr. Croswell assumes that the objections of the property owners in preventing improvement work have equal weight, whether under the road improvement district act or the Vrooman act. Such is not the case. Vrooman act work is protested out by a majority of frontage, which is an equitable condition, while Section 5 of the road improvement district act states that "if it appears that a majority of the owners of land within the district have so in writing made objection going to the entirety of the work, the board of supervisors shall so find; and thereupon such board shall have no power to proceed further."

This means that one person owning 50 per cent, or more, of the frontage to be improved, would be powerless against two or more persons, owning even as little as 1 per cent, which is manifestly unfair.

Unfortunately, our opponent quotes and argues from only two paragraphs in the road district improvement act of 1907. He states the objects of the act, then jumps to the portion which says the supervisors shall transfer a part of the "general road fund" to the district fund. He claims that this apportionment "must be used in payment of the bonds of a district." The act does not so state. What it does say, in Section 13, is that "the board of supervisors shall transfer to said 'road district improvement fund No. —' a fair proportion of the general road fund."

Now, Section 2651 of the political code defines "general road fund" as follows: "The board of supervisors may, at the meeting at which they are required to levy the property tax for road purposes, establish a general road fund, and order to be apportioned thereto an amount not exceeding 35 per centum of the aggregate road tax collected from all sources. The moneys in such general fund shall be applied to the following purposes only: First, the payment of the expense of general county road improvements in which the inhabitants of all of the districts within the county are interested; second, the assistance of weak and impoverished districts in keeping the roads in repair; third, the payment of such demands as are payable by law out of the general road fund."

ance of weak and impoverished districts in keeping the roads in repair; third, the payment of such demands as are payable by law out of the general road fund."

This clearly indicates that a maximum of only 21 cents of the 60-cent road tax can comprise the general road fund; also that this fund is not to be used to pay principal or interest on road district improvement bonds. Mr. Croswell's statement to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Since the act does not provide for maintenance of any streets within the district, it is only reasonable to assume that the transfer of funds could be for no other purpose than that of keeping up the streets.

"The whole of Section 13 of the act reads as follows: 'A special fund to be named 'road district improvement fund No. —' (the number to be that of the district) for the discharge and payment of such bonds and the interest thereon shall be constituted as follows, to-wit: 'There shall each year, at the time of the levy of the general levy of state and county taxes, be levied against and upon all the land within said road improvement district No. — (being the district established and as bounded in the order ordering the work to be done) a special assessment tax in an amount clearly sufficient together with any moneys which are or may be in said fund to pay all the principal which has or will become due and all interest which has or will become payable on said bonds, before the proceeds of another tax levy at the time of the general tax levy for state and county purposes can be made available for the payment of such bonds.'"

"The board of supervisors shall from the general road funds of the county, transfer to said 'road district improvement fund No. —' such amount as, in the judgment of said board, is a fair proportion of the general road fund of the supervisorial district in which said road improvement district No. — is situated."

"In any event it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors to levy a sufficient special assessment tax upon all land within said road improvement district No. — to maintain such road district improvement fund No. — sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said bonds as the same shall become payable, and the board of supervisors is hereby vested with power to do all and singular the things which in this section aforesaid it is declared shall be done."

In the first paragraph it is specifically stated that an assessment tax must be levied in sufficient amount each year, to cover the whole principal and interest which is due and payable that year, and clinches the matter by repetition in the third paragraph.

The district, as a whole, pays for the improvement, but the district bonds being issued therefor, and consequently the person whose property is more valuable, even though containing less improved frontage, than another's, will pay for more than the cost of work in his own property, whereas the other will pay for less. This is surely not as fair as the Vrooman act—applicable to municipalities only—which requires equal payment from each foot of abutting property.

The only sort of district to be the gainer in street work by employing the road improvement district act is instead of annexing and using the Vrooman act is that in which there is a large, valuable area and small road mileage; even then, the whole area must be included in the district to make conditions balance.

And we still have to pay our 60 cents per $100 of valuation, for road tax, whether in an improvement district or not.

The act does not appear feasible, under present conditions, and the district attorney's office has advised making haste slowly along such lines till the validity of it has been tested.

In conclusion, I wish to state that there is no intention of, or necessity for, presenting false or incomplete arguments for annexation. The proposition stands on its merits, and needs many of the inhabitants wear beautiful furs on the streets, which are very noticeable to one not accustomed to seeing such furs.

Marion Banker Tells of a Cruise Through the Straits of Magellan

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 16, 1910.

My Dear Friends:

Well, here I am around on the other side of the states from home. It is quite cold over here but we had some experience in hot weather for the past six months around the equator and the West Indies. We left San Francisco on August 14th and made a 31-days run to a small place called Chimbote, Peru, some hundreds of miles north of Lima and Calao. There was no excitement at this place but there was considerable when we were off the coast of Ecuador. That was when we crossed the "line" and first saw Neptune Rex. The night before crossing the line Dave Jones, His Majesty's Royal Messenger, came over the bow and delivered the subpoena to us, land lubbers. The following day we entered His Majesty's domain and King Neptune came aboard in his sea chariot pulled by several vicious looking beasts of the deep and beside him, his queen and back of them the pages. Following the chariot were the rest of the party, about forty in all. Doctors, policemen, bears, judges, etc.

The Royal Navigator took charge of the ship and the initiation was begun. It took place on the forward bridge with the tank below some twenty feet on the superstructure with about five feet of cold salt water in it. They never took particular care to change the water when it got a little dirty either. The policemen ran about the decks arresting those who tried to cross His Majesty, and these were severely punished. First the judge tried you and sentenced you to a certain number of degrees and then the barber gave you a shave with a huge wooden razor and then they smeared you with all colors on your face and in your hair. Next they asked you a question and a sea devil standing by a big syringe of molasses and gave you a big syringe of molasses and then they gave you a pill about the size of a hen's egg and consisting of quinine sulphate, tr. capsicum, etc. The most sickening things they could find. Well, when they sat you on a stool over the tank and all of a sudden you took a tumble back into the water below and then the ducking began and by the time that they finished with you you were so weak you could hardly walk and then they threw you over the edge of the tank and about twenty fellows lined up with big clubs stood by in a line and beat you as you passed.

From Chimbote, Peru, we went direct to Valparaiso, Chile. Here we attended the Chilean Centennial, an exposition given to celebrate the 100th year that Chile has been a republic. Besides our four cruisers, California, Flagship; Colorado, Pennsylvania and ourselves, there were about twenty other ships representing the various nations of the world. We had quite a time. Illumination of the ships in the harbor, and the government buildings on the shore was very beautiful. They had a water-carnival one night in which all of the ships were represented with water floats illuminated with electric lights. We all had liberty here and had a fine time. Some went up to Santiago, Chile, 100 miles inland.

From Valparaiso we went to Talcahuano, Chile, a two days' run. Here we coaled ship, cleaned up, painted the ship as usual and got under way again. This time we went to sea six days, not stopping till we put in at Punta Arenas, Chile, the most southern city in the world. The name of this place means "rocky point." It is situated on the Chilean side of the Straits of Magellan and is just a day's run at 18 knots from the western end of the Straits. We steamed along all day with the high snow capped mountains towering above us on each side and here and there a glacier had formed of the snow drift. It was cold, too, in the Straits, but very beautiful. This country is inhabited by a very savage race called Patagonians. We remained at Punta Arenas, but three days and then went on to Rio. At Punta Arenas they export the fine furs. Especially the silver fox furs. It being so cold a great many of the inhabitants wear beautiful furs on the streets, which are very noticeable to one not accustomed to seeing such furs.

We steamed out of the straits against a heavy wind and sea and it was rough for days at sea. One could hardly walk around the decks. Water came all over the ship and we went up and down for a week. All hands were glad when the lookout called "Land-Ho" off Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Here we first coaled the ship and went through the usual after-routine of cleaning, etc. Then the liberty party was piped aft and all hands banded on their glad rags ready to hit the beach. We had a very good time here. An automobile was the easiest and most convenient way to take in the city, so that is the way we chose. Rio is a very beautiful city and ever so modern in every respect. The vegetation is simply grand and so many beautiful parks. It is the prettiest city I have ever seen. The buildings are of stone with beautiful designs. Some are painted with very brilliant colors as the Brazilians seem to be fond of the bright colors, probably because they live in such a tropical climate. Many bananas and oranges grew here but other fruit which was imported was very expensive. Their money runs in reals; 1000 reals being a milreis and worth about 35 cents in our currency. Their peso or dollar was worth about 25 cents U. S. It sounds ridiculous to hear them say that this or that is worth 50 dollars when you have been used to hearing its price about ten dollars, but when you stop to figure it up it only amounts to about the same.

When we left Rio we went into warm weather and across the equator but no ceremonies were held this time as all hands had been initiated on the other side. We put in at Barbadoes, W. I., eleven days later and dropped our mudhook below us in the clearest water I have ever seen. One could look down alongside the ship and see the bottom, 12 fathoms below. Here we were to coal the ship, but as there was no coal we shoved off the following day for St. Thomas, Danish, W. I.

On our way to St. Thomas we passed close by the Isle of Martinique on which is Mount Pele, that volcano which a few years ago destroyed the city of Pierre. We could see it plainly and some smoke coming from the semi-dormant crater. From St. Thomas, which was an old stronghold for sea pirates, we went to Culebra, Porto Rico, where we held preliminary target practice prior to the target practice for record we are to attend soon.

We remained on the coasts of Porto Rico until the 9th, and then started on our homeward stretch, a five-day run, to Hampton Roads, Virginia and Old Point Comfort.

CITY TRUSTEES

General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Get Contracts—Annexation Election Called for January 3d

The board assembled promptly at 7:30. All members present but Mr. Watson, who came in later.

After the reading of the minutes and demands, the regular order was departed from, and bids opened for furnishing electric light supplies. These were bids made in reply to advertisement for the furnishing of meters and other supplies for the department for the ensuing year. They were from the Westinghouse Manufacturing Company, B. F. Kierolf and the General Electric Company. They were, on motion, referred to the manager of the department to examine and report. The regular order being resumed, approved demands were passed upon. Tax Collector reported the sum of $1,000 collected during the past week, making a total to date of $5,298.94. The fire marshal requested that a fire hydrant be put in at Sixth and Cedar. The matter was referred to the committee on public works. The fire chief also called attention to the danger threatened by the careless running of stovepipes through roofs and walls, without proper protection, in some of the buildings in the city. The matter was referred to the fire chief and the building inspector for investigation. The matter of amending the ordinance outlining Fire District No. 1 was postponed for one week. The manager of the electric light department at this time recommended that light department supply contracts be awarded as follows: General Electric Company, transformers and incandescent lamps; Westinghouse Company, watt meters. Mr. Coker made a motion, seconded by Mr. Anderson, that action be postponed for one week. A motion prevailed, however, to take the matter up in committee of the whole. A communication was received from Mr. Ogier asking for permission to open a pool room in Glendale. It was turned down by the votes of Lane, White and Watson.

A petition was then presented to the trustees asking that an election for the annexation of certain described territory to the City of Glendale be held, the same being signed by 167 voters of the City of Glendale, being more than the requisite one-fifth of the voters participating in the last municipal election. The clerk certified to the correctness of the signatures as far as the necessary two-thirds is concerned. On motion of Mr. Lane, the petition was granted, and a further resolution adopted calling the election to be held on January 3.

At this point the board went into committee of the whole to revert to the question of the electric lighting supplies. The estimate of the lighting superintendent as to the amount required for meters, etc., for the coming year, was from $3,000 to $7,500, the latter being a figure based on the possibility of a larger city. It was agreed that the recommendation of Superintendent Lynch be adopted. The board, coming to order again, confirmed the action of the committee of the whole, and award was made as recommended above. The reading of the resolution calling the annexation election served to while away a pleasant hour. Clark Woodberry occupying the center of the stage, and winning the applause of his hearers upon completion. The ordinance prohibiting the sale of tobacco in any form to minors passed third reading, as did also the ordinance regulating rates for electric light.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATED.

Thanksgiving day weather conditions were ideal. There had been a slight frost the previous night, and the day was perfect. The crowds from the city spread out over the nearby country resorts to enjoy the day. The cars running between Los Angeles, the mountains and the ocean were crowded all day long. The greatest rush was to Santa Monica, but all other resorts were well patronized, not everyone desiring to see the road races and feast on thrills. Thousands of homes had the fat turkey on the festive board, with many glad reunions.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

On January 1st the NEWS will publish a special illustrated edition containing matter descriptive of Glendale and the eastern end of the San Fernando valley. This notice is given so that advertising patrons may be giving the matter consideration.

The price of beef is down, so the packers inform us, but no demonstration of it seems to have reached the consumer.

Turkey in Europe is bad enough but on the day after Thanksgiving it's turkey in America that gives us a pain.

Mr. J. H. Braley has been lecturing to a woman's club in Los Angeles and advising them to boycott the men if the miserable creatures won't give them the right to vote. We fancy that the ladies who heard the sapient gentleman on that occasion are too well satisfied with their "downtrodden" condition to do anything of the kind, but if they should attempt it, won't the girls who refuse to join in the boycott, have a good time?

The launching of the greatest ship ever built occurred at Belfast on Oct. 20th when the "Olympic," a White Star liner, was released from her stays and glided into the water. Her length is 884 feet. The length of the "Great Eastern" was 692 feet. The displacement of the "Olympic" is 60,000 tons, that of the "Great Eastern" 23,000 tons. The "Olympic" will provide accommodations for 2500 passengers and have a crew of 860, her speed will be 21 knots.

Notwithstanding the improbable stories of the discovery of Mrs. Crippen alive in the United States and elsewhere, Dr. Crippen was hanged in London Wednesday morning last according to program. As long as capital punishment is the penalty for murder, the example of our English friends in carrying out promptly the mandate of the law is highly commendable and the wish is not unnatural that the legal procedure of the courts on this side of the water be equally prompt and reliable.

The revolution in Mexico appears to be assuming serious proportions. There is no doubt but that there is a large proportion of the people of that country dissatisfied with the force of a "Republic" which President Diaz is treating them to. At the same time it is doubtful if the people are capable of giving their country any better government on the whole than that of the present dictator who is filling the president's chair.

But there is in the universal atmosphere too much of the spirit of freedom to permit much longer the suppression of the ferment that through long generations of oppression continues, although ever so slowly, to react upward and aspire.

Robert J. Burdette, writing for the Los Angeles Times, expresses his satisfaction with the law making wife desertion a felony, but in his customary logical and lucid English, expresses a desire to see similar punishment meted out to the women who desert their husbands. It is refreshing to have a writer of Mr. Burdette's reputation and ability speak a good word in defense of men in these perilous times when the alleged sterner sex are being pushed ruthlessly back of the scenes so that their mothers, wives, sisters, daughters and sweet hearts may get into the line light. Premier Asquith over in England is spending considerable time nowadays in dodging the suffragettes. Why doesn't he compromise, give them the ballot on condition that they agree to kindle the fire and carry in the coal? Under these conditions life for man might still be worth living.

UNIONISM IN SAN FRANCISCO.

A little while ago in San Francisco two young men opened a small theater and gave moving picture shows, doing all the work themselves. To them came the walking delegate calling attention to the fact that the particular union to which they belonged did not allow proprietors to do the actual work of manipulating the slides, they must hire a man to do it. The young men refused to be dictated to as it would be impossible for them to pay wages to another man and continue to do business. They were boycotted.

Recently the Cafeteria system of restaurants has been introduced into the bay city, much to the satisfaction of the frequenters of such places. To many patrons it was an agreeable change to be given the chance to serve themselves without the intermediate services of waiters. To the proprietors of the establishments came the walking delegate. It was against the rules of the union, waiters must be employed, a waiterless restaurant was anathema. Result, a boycott.

These are chance samples of the workings of labor unionism in the first city of the coast, and a great many people are inquiring whether this condition of affairs in San Francisco is likely to continue until 1915 when the great world's fair will be held in the city of the Golden Gate. If it does, shall we point with pride to the system that dominates it with a tyranny that has no counterpart in any civilized country?

San Francisco has shown a splendid courage in rebuilding a city in a manner that is the wonder of the world, but unless there is more evidence of moral courage given by its citizens than the instances quoted indicate, the world's fair will simply serve to advertise the conditions of the city's shame.

FOR A GREATER GLENDALE.

The trustees having taken action and the date of the election on the question of annexation being fixed for January 3rd next, the campaign may be said to be fairly launched. It is no doubt very generally desired that the contest be carried on in accordance with the fairest rules of the game, but there will no doubt be more or less "slopping over." This paper stands where it has stood from the first, squarely and unequivocally in favor of the proposition for a larger city, believing such a consummation to be for the very best interests of all. We believe that history will be repeated and that in the course of a year or two after consolidation has been effected (and it will be effected) those who now most strenuously oppose it, will be unwilling to go back to conditions as they are at present. In order that this number may be as small as possible when January 3rd arrives, it is desirable from every point of view that there be the fairest and most free discussion in a campaign which should be along the lines of education. The opposition both inside the present city limits and without, is mainly based upon an honest fear on the part of some property owners and others that their interests may suffer should the proposition carry. This fear we believe is based upon illogical grounds, but it is entitled to respect and the only way in which it can be fairly met is in an effort to remove it by showing the absence of good reasons for its existence. A great change in sentiment has taken place outside of the city since the proposition was broached, a large number of people now being enthusiastically in favor of it who were at first antagonistic. This is the natural result of a wider knowledge of the subject. One good result already accomplished is the increased interest which many citizens now take in municipal affairs. The one discouraging feature of the campaign thus far is the suspicion, not confined to any one side or section, that the other side is not "playing fair" and is inspired by some ulterior and selfish motive. The sooner this spirit is eliminated in the discussion of the subject the sooner will there be a fair understanding of the matter at issue, and the better it will be for our reputation as an intelligent community capable of putting aside prejudice and judging matters upon their merits solely. As heretofore the NEWS opens its columns for arguments pro or con upon the subject, but requests contributors to be as concise as possible and to avoid expressions of their suspicions or aspersions of the motives of those opposed to their views.

A STORY WORTH WHILE.

A short story in one of the recent popular periodicals strongly impresses us as being one of the really "worth while" kind. It is entitled "The Man Who Came Back," and purports to give a life chapter from the history of one of the unfortunates of the

"down and out" class, who are sadly numerous in all of our great cities. The hero is a printer in the overcrowded city of Chicago, and the heroine is his young wife. Through no fault of his own he loses his position as a compositor, and then everything goes wrong. He becomes reckless and bitter in spirit, envy of the rich and those more fortunate than himself takes possession of his mind, and the chance to work which he first lost through the fault of others is permanently made unattainable through faults that are his own. But at last, impelled to do so by the insistence of his wife, he resolves to get out of the overcrowded city, where men jostle one another in the scramble for a livelihood, and seek a home and happiness in the wide, free West. The difficulties met and overcome are woven into a story skillfully told, and when the final chapter is reached, in which the success of the pair is related, the reader feels that this little piece of fiction has in it the uplift and inspiration that work for good. In times of greatest prosperity, as well as in periods of financial depression, every large city has in it a large proportion of the unhappy class who in the midst of industry are unable to get a chance to earn the bare necessities of life. Many of these unfortunates gradually drift into ways of crime, and prey upon society, recruiting the ranks of those who are at war with mankind. Professional reformers make weary the multitude by their fine-spun theories of the cause of poverty and impracticable schemes of relief based upon some idea of wholesale reformation, by the application of new laws and systems, but to this one cause, the overcrowding of the cities, may fairly be attributed a large proportion of the poverty in the world. It affects not only those who flock to the cities and crowd one another out of the chance to work, but it takes workers from other fields of usefulness, where they are needed, and leaves land to lie fallow that should be rich with harvest. The world today is full of opportunity; the chances for young men, in particular, are greater than ever before in the known history of the race, because never before was it so easy to go from one part of the world to another, to leave the congested spots where humanity clogs the door of opportunity, and get out where there is room to breathe and go forward. There is no single state in the Union where the available land has been made the most of, and the development of all in the West and South is merely superficial, a little area near to the cities well developed, possibly, but with great stretches of land further back waiting for the industrious husbandman. In this era of high prices it may please the political professors to place the fault upon the tariff, but there is not a single commodity in use which would not be reduced in price if the supply of it was doubled. If the necessities of life cost too much, the obvious remedy is to increase the supply and let the cost take care of itself. And the burden of this essay is to the unfortunates who overcrowd the cities: Get out into the wide world that has room for millions of you, and join the great army of producers who, laboring as industriously as they may, cannot give the world too much of the fruits of the earth nor make a surplus of its abundance!

Mark Twain as "Attraction." A girl who was a stranger to Mark Twain once found her way into his Bermuda home with the hope of getting a sight of the author. She came suddenly in contact with him and frankly explained her errand. "Have you seen the crystal cave yet," he asked, "or the aquarium?" "No, I came to see you first," she answered. "Well, you shouldn't have seen me first," he answered. "I run in opposition to the crystal and the aquarium. But they're not shucks to me. I'm lots better. I give them their money's worth. But you should see them. Then you'll appreciate me." This was said in his most earnest drawl and with only a sparkle of humor in his keen blue eyes.—Chicago Tribune.

Striking it Rich. "Did you ever strike it rich prospecting?" "Only once," replied the westerner. "I was going along a trail in the mountains late one afternoon when I saw the gleam of metal. Hastening to it, I found— "Silver or gold?" "Tin. It was a matchbox, full too. And I had been out of matches since my early morning smoke."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Come-back. "Honesty, my son," said the millionaire, "is the best policy." "Well, perhaps it is, dad," rejoined the youthful philosopher, "but it strikes me you have done pretty well, nevertheless."—London Tit-Bits.

A Pioneer Shipment. The first shipment of wheat from Chicago via the lakes was made in 1838. The shipment consisted of seventy-eight bushels.

Underground Hotels.
An extraordinary hotel is that in the sewers of Paris, immediately below the Church of St. Madeleine. It was built and is conducted solely for the benefit of the sewer workers. Nearly a hundred meals are provided every day, and for the sum of $2.40 a man can be comfortably housed and fed for a week in this gigantic drain-pipe.

Very similar is the hotel which caters for visitors to the coal mine of St. Pierre at Mons. It is to be found at the bottom of the mine, 600 feet below the earth, and is carved out of solid coal. The electric light on the glittering black walls, which have been left unpapered, is extremely effective. Large reception and bed rooms splendidly fitted up are provided, and the hotel even boasts the luxury of a swimming bath.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

XIV.—Bringing the College to the Farmer.

By C. V. GREGORY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

THE agricultural colleges, the secondary schools and the rural schools are doing a great deal to educate the farmers of the future. To educate the farmers of the present some other system is needed. This has been provided in many communities through extension departments of the agricultural colleges. The purpose of these departments is to get as close as possible to the actual farmers and to teach them a few of the principles of modern agriculture.

One of the principal means of accomplishing this work is by short courses held at the agricultural colleges. They are attended by a large number of farmers. Most of these are men who could not leave home to take a longer course. The instruction at these courses is as simple and practical as possible. There is very little studying connected with a course of this kind. It consists mainly of lectures and laboratory work.

Laboratory work is given in corn judging. The farmers learn to distinguish between the different varieties, they learn the points that go to make a good ear of corn, and they get a great deal of practice in placing ears and samples in order of merit. The interest in this work is heightened in many cases by holding a corn show in connection with the short course.

Laboratory work is given also in stock judging. Most of the colleges have a large number of representative animals of the principal breeds. These are supplemented in many cases by importations from leading breeders. Many farmers learn for the first time just what a sidebone is and how it is formed. Most of them know a good horse when they see it, but they learn at the short course just what points make him good. They also learn to discriminate between two horses which at first sight look equally good. At some short courses meat demonstrations are held, which prove to be a very popular feature. The annual meat demonstration at the Iowa Agricultural college, at which Uncle John Gosling, the veteran butcher of Kansas City, presides, is famous all over the middle west. The farmers who are attending short courses go over the animals in class until they become thoroughly familiar with them. Then these same animals are slaughtered, and Uncle John points out the differences in the cuts of meat. After such a demonstration the student understands more clearly the difference between a pure bred steer and one of the nondescript kind. The chances are that he goes home with a determination to raise better cattle. One more step has been taken to relieve the beef famine.

The women are not neglected at the short courses. They are given work in domestic science and home management. They go back with an ambition to have more beautiful and more convenient homes. They also learn some of the things they can do to improve the social life of the neighborhood, and the inspiration they gain is reflected the next year in their home community.

While the work given in the short courses cannot be as thorough as that in the longer courses, the results are seen more early. The short course students are nearly all actual farmers or farmers' wives, and the ideas they learn at the short course are put into immediate practice on their own farms and in their own communities.

It is impossible for any very great percentage of the farmers to get away from home for even two weeks, however. The short course at the college is good as far as it goes, but it is only a beginning. To extend the work of the college short course several states have inaugurated the plan of putting on local short courses. The commercial club of some live country town joins with the farmers to provide a place for meetings. Wherever sufficient interest is shown the college furnishes a corps of instructors. These local short courses usually last but one week. The work given is much like that of the college short course, although, of course, there is not as much equipment to work with. Every student is obliged to bring ten ears of corn for class work. Stock is obtained from local breeders. The Iowa Agricultural college last winter sent out a car loaded with some of the best of the college stock and corn to short courses in that state. The local short courses are very popular and reach many farmers who cannot get away from home for more than a few days at a time.

One of the oldest means for taking information to the farmers is the farmers' institute. This is exceptionally good in that it gives a chance for a great deal of discussion among farmers, which creates interest and brings out the methods which have proved most successful. Usually two or three speakers from the college are present to talk at these institutes.

The county fair is another rural institution that is a great educator. The old type of county fairs, that were little more than racing meets and places for gamblers, is almost a thing of the past. The modern county fair has its full share of amusements, but they are for the most part clean. A good horse race is enjoyed by every red blooded farmer. A baseball game or a balloon ascension adds to the enthusiasm. An opportunity is given to the farmer and his family to meet their friends from all parts of the country. The village and town people mingle with the farmers on an equal basis, and all get better acquainted. Many fair associations have provided groves where picnic dinners can be spread.

The best part of the fair, however, is the educational feature. This is fostered by competition. There are corn growing contests for the boys and corn and stock judging contests. Often the boys who come out ahead in these contests are sent to the short course at the college and their expenses paid by the fair association. The farmers are eager to see which can produce the best colt or best steer. A man from the agricultural college judges the stock. After he has placed the ribbons he explains why the prize winning animals were given the preference. The man who gets a blue ribbon goes home encouraged to strive harder than ever, while his neighbor who is placed further down the line grins his teeth and determines to have something next year that cannot be beaten. The county fair is America's most truly rural institution and is one of the foremost factors in arousing interest in country life.

What the county fair does for localities the state and district fairs do for a larger territory. Perfect cattle vie with each other for the premier honors, and the massive drafters divide the popular attention with the high stepping, flashily moving carriage horses. Spreading agricultural knowledge by special train is a new way of reaching the farmer that is just coming into vogue. The movement began in Iowa six years ago, when the seed corn trains were run on all the principal railroads of the state. A regular schedule was made, the train stopping for half an hour at each station. The cars were filled with farmers, and the college professors explained the value of tested seed corn and told how the testing could be done. A comparison of the average yields of corn in the state for the five year periods before and after the first corn trains were run shows an increase of 2.4 bushels to the acre. Careful observers credit a large share of this increase to the seed corn trains. Figuring the average acreage and the average farm value for the five years, the increase was worth more than $8,000,000 a year. The extra 2.4 bushels have done much to bolster up the diminishing food supply.

Since 1904 special trains of various kinds have been run for the benefit of the farmers. Oregon has run an apple train. Ohio has run a dairy train, and the people of that state have been taught to test their cows and get rid of those which are not paying for their board. South Dakota and northern Iowa have run oat trains and taught the farmers how to put the oat crop on the paying side of the ledger. Illinois has run a good roads train, teaching the farmers by the object lesson how they can have hard roads the year around. The special train is spectacular, but that is one of the reasons for its success. It reaches more people in a given length of time than all other methods of agricultural extension together. In Iowa last winter three weeks' work with special trains spread the gospel of corn testing to more than 50,000 farmers.

WEATHER AND PRODUCTS.

The first frost of the season in this locality formed last Saturday night and barely left a mark upon tender foliage. There was more on Sunday night but neither did any damage. Frost is usually expected in this section any time between Nov. 1st and March 1st. Last year and the year before a frost in the latter part of October was more severe than any this season so far. As it is now, late potatoes and tomatoes, pumpkins and sweet potatoes, all of which are in the class frequently injured by this time in November are still unharmed. The Japanese gardens in this vicinity are just now given over to the lettuce crop and are producing generously.

GLENDALÉ'S ELECTRIC LIGHTING PLANT.

Manager Lynch reports that up to the 22nd there have been 30 new connections made to supply light and power for this month with ten more orders on the books. The total number of consumers is 550 as against 440 July 1st. The total business for the month of October was $1399.51 and for November it will be about $1500. For the fiscal year ending July next the total business promises to reach $17,500. At that time one bond for $500 will be payable and interest amounting to $1287.50. This obligation will be met and doubtless a good sum be left in the treasury.

His friends unite in congratulating Mr. Brown on his promotion.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Talbot entertained Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. J. Lowery of Pomeroy, Iowa, who are spending the winter in Pasadena. Mr. Lowery is a member of the Iowa Legion and a prominent banker in his home town. He has brought his auto with him and proposes to see all there is to be seen. Mr. Lowery is a cousin of Mrs. Talbot.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Pack entertained Mrs. William Hartsough, Miss Mildred Hartsough and Master William C. Hartsough, Jr., at their home "The Priory" on Cedar street.

while really a state concern, is maintained principally by endowments from members of the Los Angeles society. It is a home where boys are sent after their first offense instead of to the reform school. They pay a nominal tuition and are sent to school and taught a trade, while the general atmosphere is considerably above an ordinary reform school.

Dr. and Mrs. Leon H. Hurtt were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Williams of Los Angeles for a several days' trip made the latter part of the week in their new 1911 Stoddard-Dayton. TROPICO

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Seward passed Thanksgiving at Whittier as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Grigg.

Miss Jennie Angel returned Wednesday afternoon after a visit of several days with her parents at Downey.

Miss Mabel Winebrenner, who for the past few days has been on the sick list, is able to be about her work again.

Miss Florence Nathlesson of Los Angeles, passed several days the past week with Miss Myrtle Harrison of West Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bennett, who have been passing several months at Porterville, have returned to this place and will make their home here.

Rev. Hatch, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, will take for the subject of his sermons next Sunday morning, "Christ in the State," evening, "The Old Thanksgiving."

Kenneth Wilbur has returned to his work with a surveying company in the mountains near San Bernardino, after enjoying a visit of several days with his parents on Glendale avenue.

Guy Maxwell, who has been teaching in a university in the northern part of the state, enjoyed a visit of several days with his parents at this place. He returned Monday afternoon.

Quite a number of the young people of this place, and some of the old ones, also, attended the annual road races at Santa Monica on Thanksgiving day. Many of them went to the beach Wednesday night and participated in the "night of revelry," which was suggested and carried out by Dick Ferris.

A union Thanksgiving service of the church of this place was held in the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening. Rev. W. C. Botkin, pastor of the Methodist church, delivered the annual Thanksgiving sermon, while a number of other church people assisted in the service. A number of special musical selections were rendered by the choir of the Presbyterian church.

A popular camera club of Los Angeles came on one of the three scouting tours up the Los Angeles river on Thanksgiving afternoon. The party came by electric car as far as Ivanhoe, and from that point "hoofed" it up the river. Although the party fired many shots, no reports were heard by residents of this place. We think photographers would go a long way before they would find a better material for pictures than along the Los Angeles river.

TROPICO METHODIST NOTES.

The first quarterly conference will be held in this church next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. F. D. Mathers, district superintendent, presiding.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of this church met at the home of Mrs. P. Harrison, corner Park avenue and San Fernando road, Tuesday afternoon.

The last of the series of sermons on "Gateways to Success," will be delivered by Rev. Botkin at the evening service next Sunday, the subject being "Choosing a Career."

A number of the members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of this church attended the district meeting which was held in Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon of this week.

Miss Nina Claver, Miss Lila Pratt, Jens Ackeland and Rev. W. C. Botkin will go as delegates from the Epworth League of this church to the Pasadena district convention of the league which will be held at Monrovia Friday and Saturday of this week. Rev. Botkin will read a paper before the convention. A report of this convention will be given at the meeting of the Epworth League next Sunday evening.

TO BE KNOWN AS TROPICO BLOCK

The two-story brick business block that is being erected by Stevenson & Logan on San Fernando road will hereafter be known as Tropico block. Downstairs there are four large store rooms, three of which are 24x60 feet, while the other is 26x60 feet. The two south rooms have already been let, one as a drug store, the other as a hardware establishment. The room on the north end of the row, which is the largest room of the four, has been arranged as a garage, and this doubtless will be one of the best locations in this valley for that kind of business, as there is so much travel along the San Fernando road by autos and motorcycles.

EXACTLY ONE MONTH BEFORE XMAS

Could you give a more acceptable gift than a GOOD-Photograph? Los Angeles can show you no better work than that done at

WESTON'S STUDIO

Just north of Tropico Avenue on Brand Boulevard
PHONES: Studio, Sunset 111. Res., Sunset 257.

The upper floor of this building has been arranged for a hotel. It consists of 30 rooms which average about 12x12 feet in size. At the front in the north end is located the dining room, size 6x13 feet, while the kitchen, 12x13 feet, is situated immediately at the rear. Some of the rooms are so arranged as to make suites of two rooms each, five of these being possible, three at the front of the building and two at the rear. All of the rooms and the halls are high, light and airy and they will doubtless prove popular. It is estimated by Mr. Logan that the entire building will be completed and ready for occupancy by the first day of the year. A wide cement sidewalk and curbing have been laid before the structure.

NEW BUSINESS ENTERPRISES AT TROPICO.

Tropico Drug Company.

An establishment which will open its doors to the Tropico people and the people of the valley in general is the Tropico Drug company, C. L. Carstensen being owner and manager. The pharmacy will be located in the new block which is being erected by Logan & Stevenson, and will occupy the room immediately adjoining the market. Mr. Carstensen expects to open for business about the first of December.

During the past five years Mr. Carstensen has occupied positions with a number of the largest drug companies in Los Angeles. He is an expert prescription compounder and is registered in several states. He has been in the drug business for the past nineteen years. For quite a long period he maintained a drug store in San Pedro. Mr. Carstensen is thoroughly competent and may safely be trusted with prescriptions of any nature.

Tropico Hardware Company.

The latest addition to the business section of Tropico is the Tropico Hardware company. O. C. Logan, one of the owners of the building, will be manager and proprietor of this establishment. Mr. Logan informed us this week that everything in the hardware and building line will be constantly kept on hand, including a full line of paints, oils, glass, etc. It is the intention of Mr. Logan to have the store equipped and ready for business by the first of the year. This room is located next to the one to be occupied by the Tropico Drug company. It is 24x60 feet in size.

WEST GLENDALE

Mr. Paul V. Tuttle, the well-known architect, is erecting a beautiful home of the Swiss design, on his lot on West Fourth street.

Mr. W. E. Tarr and family of Los Angeles are new arrivals in West Glendale and are occupying the Bennington home on Ivy street.

The sale at Woods' ranch on West Fourth street, Saturday afternoon, was well attended. A few of the articles sold brought good prices, but as a rule the figures obtained were hardly up to the average.

The residents of Sixth street are rejoicing over the fact that that thoroughfare is being improved as fast as the teams and men can do the work. It will be of great benefit to all travelers between Eagle Rock and Glendale, as it is the direct route between the two places.

Thanksgiving exercises were held in the different rooms of the West Glendale school on Wednesday afternoon, consisting principally of songs, readings, etc. Mrs. Taylor's room, composed of the little tots, indulged in a play "Pocahontas," with a chocolate party to "top off on." A jolly time for all the little ones.

A number of the friends of Miss Harriet Wells gathered at her home Wednesday evening. Covers were laid for an informal birthday dinner given in her honor. Miss Wells was the recipient of a number of handsome gifts. Miss Harriet Wells spent the week end as a guest of Mrs. Irene V. Hart at 1226 West Thirty-first street, Los Angeles.

The building industry is certainly not at a stand still, for at the present time there are a number of fine homes in the course of construction. A beautiful new 6-room cottage is being erected on the Seegar property, Hawthorne street near Pacific. Four splendid residences can be seen toward the southern part of the tract, while in the district lying north of Fourth street west of Central avenue at least a dozen homes are being erected. Mr. Evans, formerly of Central avenue, is building a new residence on Milford street east of Central, and another party will soon erect a fine home just opposite.

Aaron Burr's Grave.

Aaron Burr died at Port Richmond, Staten Island, Sept. 14, 1836. His remains were conveyed to Princeton, N. J., where, according to his request, he was interred at the feet of his father and grandfather. Both his father and grandfather were presidents of Princeton college.

Concerning the tombstone which marks his burial place, we quote from the history of his life by Parton: "Some efforts were made and some money subscribed soon after his death to procure a suitable monument, but the project failed. For nearly two years the spot where he lay was unmarked when one morning it was discovered that a small, very substantial, and not inexpensive monument of granite and marble had been placed during the night over his remains. No one in the town saw the monument erected or knew anything whatever respecting it. There was no stonecutter in the vicinity capable of executing the work. The stone bears the inscription: 'Aaron Burr. Born February 6, 1756. Died September 14, 1836.'—Philadelphia Press.

The Presidential Salute.

One explanation of the reason for adopting twenty-one guns as the presidential salute is that there might be maintained a uniformity in national salutes. Great Britain having in the distant past adopted twenty-one as the number for the royal salute. Of the many surmises as to why the number twenty-one was settled upon we mention two—first, that twenty-one was the number of years fixed by English law as the age of majority; second, that seven was the original salute and three times seven would signify one seven for each of the divisions, England and Wales, Scotland and Ireland. It is asserted that the United States adopted this salute to signify to the mother country that her child had reached his majority and was prepared in law to inherit the land and to this end fired the "gun of 1776," the figures of which year, 1+7+7+6, equal 21.—Philadelphia Press.

Diversity of opinion proves that things are only what we think them.—Montaigne.

BIG ADVERTISEMENT FOR CALIFORNIA

San Francisco and Entire State Will Benefit Through Publicity

It pays to advertise. Any business man will tell you that. But what a great many people do not realize is that advertising—judicious advertising—pays the advertiser, whether the advertiser be a business man, a city or a State.

The census returns show a healthy growth in the great majority of cities throughout the United States but the greatest average increase in population is found in those communities that have followed a course of systematically advertising their superior advantages in climate, and in commercial and industrial possibilities.

A striking example of the benefits of municipal advertising, as illustrated by census returns, is shown in a recent press dispatch from Washington giving the completed figures from four cities. The city of Jacksonville, Florida, heads the list with an increase of 103 per cent. This is a wonderful increase and way beyond anything shown by the other cities included in the report.

The explanation is simple. The city of Jacksonville has been a generous and consistent advertiser. Henry M. Flagler has expended $2,000,000 in telling the world about Florida, and about the beautiful and progressive Jacksonville and the world has responded. Florida has grown and developed remarkably in ten years and Jacksonville has shared in the general prosperity.

The advertising that San Francisco is receiving and will continue to receive for the next five years will bring results equal to those shown in the Jacksonville returns. Not a dollar of money that is being spent by San Francisco in the fight for the Panama Exposition will be wasted. It is an investment, and an immensely profitable one whether the fight for the fair is won or lost, and as we are going to win, the investment will be doubly profitable.

WHAT IS THEIR EXCUSE?

Oxnard Courier Believes All California Papers Should Boost the Exposition.

The Oxnard Courier wants to know what excuse any California paper has for not boosting for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Commenting on the indifference of some and opposition of others to the movement, the Courier says:

"The editor of the Santa Ana Blade refused the invitation to be the guest of the San Francisco and San Diego Exposition companies at Santa Barbara because he was afraid it would put him under obligations to boost for a $5,000,000 bond issue for the benefit of San Francisco. The Blade man made a mistake. He should have gone to Santa Barbara and listened to the San Francisco and San Diego speakers. A judge would be a poor jurist who makes up his mind before he hears any of the arguments. This fair proposition is one that is not for the glory of San Francisco, but for the glory of California as against New Orleans and Louisiana. The latter State with an assessed valuation of only one-fifth that of California has already raised six and a half millions. If the Blade and other newspapers of Southern California that did not send representatives to Santa Barbara and in the light of the developments at that conference, are not willing to shout for 'San Francisco, San Diego and all California,' what are they going to shout for in the World's Fair controversy? The Southern and Middle States are solid against California. The West and the East will have to pull unitedly for this big Exposition or it will go to the South. What excuse has any California paper for not boosting for the Fair in this State?"

DESERVES THE EXPOSITION.

The Legislature of California has done itself proud. Convened in extraordinary session by Governor Gillett its members passed an act providing $10,000,000 for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915, which all Westerners hope will go to San Francisco, which has proven herself the most marvelous city of the age since being all but obliterated by the gigantic disaster of April, 1906. By its complete rehabilitation in the short period of three years the Trojans of the West have already more than proved their claims to the Exposition, which should go to their restored city overlooking the Golden Gate would be the greatest the world has ever known.—Sonoma Index-Tribune.

ENDORSE SAN FRANCISCO.

Resolutions endorsing the proposed Panama-Pacific Exposition for San Francisco have been adopted by the Stanislaus Board of Trade. This action was taken in response to a request from the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, the proposition meeting the hearty approval of the members of the Board of Trade who feel that San Francisco's interests are closely related to the best interests of the San Joaquin valley.
